

The tragedy of the play

---

Plot on the graph below the events of the play, carefully charting the rise and fall in the tension of the play. You will notice that Alfieri's opening words have been put mid-way; this is because although he has given us, the audience, notice that the play will end with bloodshed as we do not know the characters yet we probably do not feel that shocked.

