2. Explain how we know Utterson is concerned about what he has learned.

3. Re-read the passage starting "Six o'clock struck...." to "...enduring hatred." Look closely at the choice of language and sentence lengths. How does Stevenson use them to create a sense of uncertainty?

4. When they finally meet, what is Utterson's reaction to Mr Hyde?

5. Select two quotations to show this reaction and explain Stevenson's choice of language.

6. What else do we learn about Mr Hyde in the chapter?

- Hyde will inherit all Jekyll's money if he disappears
